NEW YORK (AP)—Sixty-eight per cent of the Americans questioned in a poll for Time magazine said they think it is unfair to criticize Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's reactions following his automobile accident because it "could happen to anyone."

U.S. Pilots Released By Hanoi

American Pacifist Brings Them Back

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam has released some captive American pilots, an American pacifist reported today from Hanoi.

Rennie Davis, the pacifist, did not say how many pilots were freed nor give their names or conditions. Hanoi announced on July 3, however, that three airmen were to be released to mark U.S. Independence Day and Tass reported from Hanoi today that three had, in fact, been freed.

POSSIBLY IDENTIFIED
The Soviet news agency identified them as Navy Lt. Robert Frishman, 29, perhaps meaning Lt. (jg) Robert Franchot Frishman of Santee, Calif., and Wesley Rumble, 25, perhaps Wesley Lewis Rumble of Oroville, Calif., and Navy Seaman Douglas Hegdal, 23, perhaps meaning Douglas Brent Hegdal of Watertown, S.D.

Tass said the three expressed deep gratitude to the main political department of the Vietnamese people's army, to the government of the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam and to the Vietnamese people for granting them their freedom and for the humane treatment of them by the personnel of the camp for war prisoners.

Davis, who with three other American pacifists will escort the pilots home, cabled The Associated Press here that the prisoners had been released to his group.

He said the pilots and his colleagues would fly Tuesday from Hanoi to Vientiane, the capital of Laos, in a plane of the International Control Commission. They plan to go on to Bangkok Wednesday and then to New York on Thursday.

Davis also cabled that his group had met four other American fliers—who are not being released—and all appeared in "excellent" condition. They were Lt. Col. Robinson Risner of Oklahoma City, Maj. Roger Ingvalson of Sanford, Maine, Capt. Anthony Charles Andrews of Chico, Calif., and Lt. (jg) Edwin F. Miller of Franklin Lakes, N.J.

Davis, a member of the National Mobilization Committee to end the War in Vietnam, and the other three pacifists arrived in Hanoi July 18 to escort the prisoners home.

Elated Nixon To Report On Historical Journey

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called in congressional leaders today to report on his globe-circling trip which, he said, shows the world can live in peace despite divergent political systems.

Noting that everywhere he went—from populous Asia to communist Romania—the young people in particular were captivated by the U.S. Apollo moon landing on the moon, Nixon said upon his arrival home.

"Some way, when those two Americans stepped on the moon, the people of the world were brought closer together."

"The spirit of Apollo transcends geographical barriers and political differences. It can bring the people of the world together in peace."

An elated Nixon spoke to a rain-drenched throng of high U.S. officials, diplomats and plain spectators Sunday night after returning to nearby Andrews Air Force Base from his

Gondoliers Win Over Motorboats

VENICE (AP) — Municipal authorities launched a new water traffic program last week to save Venice's gondolas. Eventually private motorboats will be banned from the Grand Canal.

The gondoliers have staged several strikes and threatened to leave Venice's maze of canals unless authorities get rid of the motorboats whose waves menace the less sturdy gondolas.

12-day trip which took him to land.

Earlier in the day he had completed a visit to Romania which he termed "the most moving experience that I have had in traveling to over 60 countries in the world."

Recalling the hundreds of thousands in the communist country who turned out to cheer the first American president ever to call on them, Nixon again sounded the theme that "differences in political philosophy cannot permanently divide the peoples of the world."

Both Republican and Democratic leaders from House and Senate were invited to the early morning session at the White House for Nixon's personal report on his 25,655-mile journey to the Philippines, Indonesia, Thailand, South Vietnam, India, Pakistan, Romania and England. Nixon concluded his 27-hour visit to Romania by doing a brief hand-in-hand gypsy dance with President Nicolae Ceausescu at Bucharest display village, then huddling for final private talks with the Romanian chief.

The session produced agreement on setting up an American library in Romania and a Romanian library in the United States; on reopening negotiations toward a consular pact between the two countries; and on a move to resume talks on a civil aviation accord.

Electricity Seals Pair To Sailboat

Vessel's Mast Hits Power Line

SOUTH HAVEN — A Jackson, Mich., couple suffered electrical shocks and were "frozen" to their sailboat after the craft's metal mast came in contact with a power line over the Black river here Sunday morning, according to city police.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Chester of Jackson were listed in fairly good condition this morning at South Haven Community hospital, where they were taken for treatment following the incident at 8 a.m. Sunday.

Police said Chester, 45, and his wife, Emmajean, 37, were sailing down the river when the aluminum mast of the 17 foot sailboat caught on the power line. The couple jumped out of the boat, but were stuck fast to the side until the boat broke away from the line, police said.

The couple was hanging on to the boat when they were frozen to it, police added. When the boat broke loose, the Chesters were able to swim to shore, where they were picked up by an ambulance and transported to the hospital, police said.

Officers said the unusually high water in the river brought the craft's mast up to the height of the power line.

Collins' Friend Being Sought

Seek Tie-In With Killings In California, Canada

By LOWELL McKIRGAN

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Police today sought an associate of a college student accused of murdering an Eastern Michigan University coed as the investigation of seven slayings of young women spread into California and Canada.

Col. Fredrick Davids, Michigan State Police director, said Andrew Manuel was being sought on a larceny warrant in connection with the theft of a house trailer.

Manuel's last known address was the same Ypsilanti, Mich., rooming house where John N. Collins lived.

CHARGED AS KILLER
Collins, 23, an Eastern Michigan University student, has been charged with first-degree murder in the strangulation of Karen Sue Beineman. Miss Beineman, also an EMU student, was the latest victim in a string of seven brutal slayings of young women in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in the past two years.

Two investigators were sent Sunday to Salinas, Calif., to probe the killings of two young women about a month ago. Michigan authorities said they would also look into the sex slaying of a teen-ager near Los Angeles.

Davids said Collins and Manuel were believed to have rented a trailer and driven to California with it in mid-June. Manuel is being sought for theft of the trailer because it was not returned to Michigan.

Police described Manuel as a 6-foot-2, 200-pound Mexican-American who also uses the alias, "Richard Diaz Jr." They said he has a tattoo, believed to be an eagle, on his left arm.

Douglas J. Harvey, Washtenaw County sheriff, said Sunday that Michigan investigators wanted to examine the trailer which they said was left in California by Collins and Manuel.

"Police also are investigating some recent killings, probably of a similar nature, somewhere within Ontario," said Curtis Stadfield, an Eastern Michigan information officer who is acting as the news coordinator for the investigation.

He said the Canadian deaths may "involve some of the people under suspicion here."

Harvey said he was "hoping for additional arrests."

In Toronto, Ontario, Provincial Police said they did not know of any similar slayings in Ontario, and had not been contacted by Michigan authorities.

However, Stadfield said Michigan authorities stood by their statement.

Police in Salinas noted at least two unsolved slayings were under study. In one, the body of 17-year-old Roxie Phillips of Milwaukie, Ore., was found on a city dump at Carmel, Calif., 13 days after her disappearance.

The body of the other victim, an unidentified young woman, was found under a bridge in Salinas. She had been shot in the back of the head.

Michigan authorities also said the death of Virginia Lynn Smith, 13, of Claremont, Calif., 35 miles east of Los Angeles, would be probed. The body of the teen-ager, who had been strangled, beaten and raped, was found June 23 in a canyon.

CYCLIST INVOLVED
Officers were investigating the possibility she was killed by a motorcyclist she hitched a ride with.

The latest victim in southeast Michigan was last reported seen leaving a wig shop June 23 and getting on a motorcycle with a

Collins Friend Of Victim

Family Of Six Slain In North

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit News reported today that John Norman Collins, 22, accused in one of seven killings in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area, apparently was a friend of Richard C. Robison, Jr., eldest son of a Lathrup Village family of six found slain two summers ago.

Collins, the newspaper said, is believed to have met young Robison during an orientation period in the fall of 1965, when both were being enrolled in Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti for the first time.

Robison was entering as a freshman, Collins as a sophomore, transfer from Central Michigan University at Mount Pleasant.

The murder of the six Robisons at their summer home near Good Hart, north of Petoskey, remains a mystery.

Sheriff Richard L. Zink of Emmet County said he would ask Washtenaw County authorities to determine if anything more than incidental acquaintance was involved.

A former fraternity brother of Collins, Frank D. Boynton Jr. of Grosse Pointe, told police today he once saw Collins with a .22-caliber pistol.

Boynton was quoted as saying he and some friends were out skeet shooting last spring near the deserted farm where Dawn

Local Physician Returns His Fees

A little over three weeks ago, eyebrows went up and tongues wagged at great length when we published an Associated Press dispatch naming Dr. Sanford Polansky as the leading beneficiary of the medicare program in Michigan for 1968.

The AP story, based on extensive research by The Detroit News, revealed the Benton Harbor doctor took in $169,000 in government reimbursement for services rendered to the indigent aged which medicare is established to care for.

He was one of 13 Michigan doctors topping the $100,000 list; 16 other Detroit area physicians collected over $50,000 apiece and 42 others throughout the state drew down over $25,000 but less than $50,000 each.

The News began its investigation following a revelation from Ronald Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare which administers medicare and medicare, that the two programs as presently constituted are bankrupt.

At the same time Finch confirmed in general terms previously discovered instances of some doctors, pharmacies and hospitals pulling in receipts never enjoyed in such abundance until Uncle Sam entered the health care field in a big way.

Last week Dr. Polansky returned the money to the Blue Shield headquarters in Detroit requesting that his invoices be checked again and deletions taken for whatever deficiencies might appear to the Blue Shield auditors. Under an arrangement with HEW, Blue Shield (medical) and Blue Cross (hospitaliza-

Only A Rumor

It is difficult to pin down the source of rumors. Usually they have humble beginnings, a conjecture, a misunderstood remark, a malicious story, and as they grow they develop a mysterious life of their own.

It seems to be the nature of rumors that the wilder they are, the faster they travel and the more likely they are to be believed.

Among the most famous rumors of the century was the one in 1915 that Russian troops were passing through Britain to fight on the Western front. Thousands of people declared they had seen these "bearded men with snow on their boots" in railway stations.

The government did not deny the rumor. Things were going badly on the Western front and the story gave people something to talk about other than the casualty lists.

To conceal the fact that there was radar on fighting planes in the last war, the government spread the story that pilots ate raw carrots to sharpen their vision. True or not, people still believe that carrots improve eyesight.

In England in 1916, 40 soldiers were being trained in the sending of messages by word of mouth along a trench. Each man whispered the message to his neighbor and the last man of all shouted it.

The first man was given the "Send reinforcements, we're going to advance."

The message was passed along and when it reached the fortieth man, he shouted it as ordered.

It was: "Send three-and-four pence, we're going to a dance."

Something like that happens to rumors.

Although Percy Bysshe Shelley was born the son of a conservative country squire, he was influenced early in life by the doctrines of the Enlightenment, ardently championing liberty and rebelling against the strictures of English politics and religion.

While at Oxford he wrote and circulated a pamphlet that caused him to be sent down for "contumacious refusal to answer certain questions" about it.

In 1814, after meeting William Godwin, whose works had strongly influenced his thinking, Shelley eloped with Godwin's daughter Mary. Shelley's estranged wife Harriet committed suicide and Shelley and Mary Godwin were married soon after.

Shelley and his wife lived exclusively in Italy from 1818 and it was there that he did his best work.

His early poetry includes "Queen Mab," a work inveighing against orthodox Christianity and secular tyranny. His "Hymn to Intellectual Beauty," conceived during a voyage on Lake Geneva with Lord Byron, reflects Shelley's Platonism.

"Prometheus Unbound," one of his better works, was a lyric and symbolic drama for which he adapted elements from the Greek myth of Prometheus.

In 1819 they moved to Pisa, where Shelley composed many of his shorter lyrics, among them "The Cloud," "To a Skylark," "Ode to the West Wind," and "The Sensitive Plant."

With the earlier "Ozymandias" written in 1817, he became the most famous among his works.

Among his last works are "Epipsychidion," a passionate love poem, and "Adonais," an elegy on the death of Keats and frequently considered to be, of elegies in English, second only to Milton's "Lycidas."

His boat was caught in a storm and he and a companion drowned.

HENRY CATHCART Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — A newspaper headline on the Teddy Kennedy story said: "He asked for mercy, not justice." That about summed it all up — that in asking an expression from his constituency whether to remain in the Senate or resign, he had, in effect, abandoned all thoughts he may have had of seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, either in 1972 or 1976.

There is little likelihood that his magic surname will evoke anything other than a positive response to the question of whether he should remain in the Senate. But that is confined to the reaction in Massachusetts.

The national reaction can be expected to be somewhat different, and most probably opposite. In Massachusetts, where the family is known, his explanation of what happened on that late night auto ride with a former secretary of his late brother Robert is bound to be received with a degree of credence or, at least, tolerance. But not in the other 49 states.

Among people far removed from Martha's Vineyard there is far less tolerance and far less credence in the conflicting stories he has told thus far. Teddy is intelligent enough, and his advisers are among the most astute in the nation, to know that their accounts carry the implication of artificiality, and that they do so because even a patently artificial account is less damaging than the truth in this instance, at least.

There are many individuals who believed that the truth will out—that it will find its way into public print in a piecemeal, sensational method. If this is so, each new rumor or report will cause the press to rebash the whole incident over and over again. And in the end his senatorial ambitions may suffer as his presidential ambitions have gone a-glimmering.

DR. COLEMAN .. And Speaking Of Your Health

Our family doctor referred to my wife to a psychiatrist. I wonder if this is his way of "brushing us off" because he lost interest in her case.

Mr. C.E.W., Rhode Island

Dear Mr. W.: I have learned that not all decisions made for a patient are accepted with good faith. I am certain you would have readily accepted your doctor's judgment had he felt the need for a surgeon, or any other specialist for physical illnesses.

Contrary to what you believe, your doctor has probably invested a great deal of his energy, skill, and interest before arriving at the conclusion that your wife could best be helped by psychiatric treatment.

Before such a decision is made, a doctor explores every avenue to be sure that the patient's complaints do not have a physical origin. In many instances, the modern physician understands the psychosomatic aspects of all disease. He knows that the e is never a physical problem that does not have some psychological overtone.

When the anxiety and other emotional symptoms of a patient appear so marked that the doctor cannot control them, and he has eliminated physical causes, he seeks advice of those specially skilled to treat emotional problems.

My suggestion would be to follow the advice of your doctor and give your wife the benefits that will accrue from a better understanding of her emotional needs.

It seems as if the battle against the fluoridation of water has left the front pages. Is this because the "anti's" have given up, or is there now more solid scientific reason for the use of fluorid to prevent tooth decay? M. S. I.N.W., Texas.

Dear Mrs. W.: All such battles seem to peter out, especially when there is more and more evidence to substantiate an important decision.

The "anti's" will undoubtedly continue to fight the undeniable truth that lack of sufficient fluoride in the water in some communities is responsible for a greater frequency of tooth decay.

Opponents of fluoridation are still spreading their unscientific beliefs without taking into consideration the great advantages of fluoridated water.

Reports now show that children brought up on fluoridated water have only 25 per cent as many cavities as children who are deprived of this. This means, of course, that the dental health of the adult is better.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the beginning of artificial fluoridation to have been able to establish its advantages from childhood through adulthood.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Hospital patients become easily exhausted with too many visitors and solicitous telephone calls.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

The bidding: 1♣ 2♥ 3♣ 4♥

Opening lead — four of spades.

If you examine all four hands, it becomes obvious that South must eventually go down one against proper defense.

But when the deal was played in London in an international pair championship several years ago, South succeeded in making the contract by an unusually imaginative course of play.

Declarer was the colorful Dutch expert, Bob Slavenburg, playing with his favorite partner, Hans Kreyns. West led a spade on which declarer played the king from dummy in order to make it easier for East to continue spades. East duly obliged by taking the ace and returning a spade.

Slavenburg ruffed and led his singleton diamond, hoping West would duck, but West, after considering the matter carefully, took the ace and led another spade, which South ruffed.

Slavenburg could have settled comfortably for down one at this point, but in typical fashion he went all out to make the contract. He knew he could not make the hand legitimately, but he hoped he might steal it by putting up a bold front.

Deliberately cutting himself off from the K-Q-x of diamonds in dummy, Slavenburg drew four rounds of trumps, ending in his hand, to produce this position:

Slavenburg now cashed his last trump. West, who assumed declarer had a diamond to make to dummy, discarded a club in order to keep the diamonds guarded. After dummy threw a club, East likewise discarded a club to protect against dummy's diamonds.

Slavenburg thereupon won the last four tricks with the A-10-8-3 of clubs!

An old moonshiner in the Blue Ridge Mountains sector decided to sample his own brew while his wife had gone to town to do her weekend shopping. The moonshiner shrugged his shoulders and challenged, "Go on and strike, darn you. you'll never find me better prepared than I am right now."

A palpable loser drifted into a midtown bar and braced the proprietor for a handout. He whined that his wife was sick, his daughter didn't have a dress to graduate in, he himself was suffering from arthritis and rheumatism, and the whole family was facing eviction from their tenement flat. All the time he talked he was fiddling with a silver dollar in his hand. "Why don't you buy something with that dollar you already have?" queried the proprietor. "Not on your life," replied the loser angrily. "That's my good luck piece!"

Woody Allen had one small indication that he had imbibed just a bit too freely when he returned home from a party the other evening. He tried to take off his pants over his head.

Festival Attended By 700

'Establishment' Seeks To Bridge Generation Gap

United Community Fund took a long step last night toward closing the "generation gap."

Some 700 persons, most of them youths, filled the terrace amphitheater at the new Lake Michigan College campus to overflow for the UCF Folk, Soul and Rock music festival.

The attraction of free music by popular local groups, combined with perfect weather, made the evening one of the most successful UCF special events in recent years. It had originally been scheduled for July 18 but was postponed at that time because of rain.

It was an evening devoted almost entirely to entertainment, provided by groups who donated their time to UCF at no cost, but there was a brief but strong United Fund message left with the youth of the area.

Jerry McKinney, UCF campaign chairman, pointed out that 45 per cent of this fall's United Fund campaign goal of $567,000 will go toward supporting UCF youth services in 1970. He asked those in attendance to sign up to work as volunteers for United Fund youth agencies.

Another UCF leader, Robert Wall, public relations chairman, observed: "The United Fund is part of the Establishment, but we want to know what young people are saying and thinking. We need the help of the young people of our community."

And Stephen Sizer, the evening's master of ceremonies and a veteran UCF volunteer, urged "the turned-on generation to turn on for UCF."

The UCF commercials were short and to the point, but the 2½-hour program was long on entertainment and talent.

Deon and the Soul Brothers, a sextet of Benton Harbor high school students, opened the show and came back later for a rousing encore. A psychedelic light show provided a stunning backdrop for the group's driving "soul" sound, and singer Johnny Morris put on a show that was often reminiscent of the great James Brown.

COLLEGE GROUP

The Chosen Few, a Lake Michigan College folk group that last year recorded the United Fund campaign song for local radio use, also scored a big hit with the audience, and one of the evening's greatest ovations came after Brenda Mullimore's haunting solo rendition of Bert Bacharach's "The Look of Love."

In a different vein, The Little Bunch of People offered religious folk music under the direction of leader and guitarist Tom Shelley. The group frequently plays for religious services in the Stevensville area and, said Shelley, recently made a record.

The program was rounded out by Now and Then, featuring the bell-clear singing of Besse Paxson, and several poignant folk numbers by soloist Grover Heyn.

Mrs. Carole Howard, chairman of the UCF youth division, was in charge of organizing the entire show. Several other UCF officials later said that they felt it was so successful that it may be repeated next year.

HOW UCF SERVES YOUTH: Jerry McKinney, campaign chairman of United Community Fund, shows chart indicating that 45 per cent of all UCF dollars go to serve the youth of the Twin Cities area. McKinney spoke briefly at last night's UCF Folk, Soul and Rock music festival, held at Lake

Child Care Center Appoints Staffers

Facility Will Open In September

Staff appointments for the Twin Cities Area Child Care Center on Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, were announced today by Center Director Robert Moon.

Three certified teachers, two registered nurses, one licensed practical nurse and five persons with pre-school program training have been employed so far, the director said.

The $150,000 center, scheduled to open in September, is designed for 80 youngsters from 2½ to 5 years old. It will operate on a full-day, year-round basis.

Financing is coming through private contributions and state and federal funds, as well as projected fees for caring for individual youngsters.

According to Moon, the center is being set up with a ratio of one adult instructor for every five children to age four and one adult for every seven or eight children over age four.

Bridge Ties Up Traffic Over River

Traffic on West Main street in Benton Harbor underwent a two-hour detour Sunday when the turn bridge over the St. Joseph river broke down while open.

Benton Harbor police said traffic heading toward St. Joseph was detoured down River-view drive and North Shore drive to other bridges. The detours were in effect from 11:50 a.m. to 1:50 p.m.

One normal detour route for Main street traffic was unavailable during the temporary emergency because of a cave-in Friday. Empire avenue, from Colfax to Salem, remained closed and is still closed pending repairs. The cave-in involved an eight-foot square section of the pavement. City officials have said the hole is about 20 feet deep.

In St. Joseph, police said traffic was detoured across the Ticonderoga bridge and onto routes leading into Fairplain.

City officials said the state highway department closed the bridge, by pulling it shut with a highway truck and cable.

According to police, the breakdown occurred when the bridge was opened to let a ship through. A cable on the bridge apparently came off and sheared off a bolt, they indicated.

Moon said the adult-child ratio will allow the children to identify more than one particular individual. Each instructional area, he said, will have one professional person working with several qualified assistants.

Moon said "Our main objective is to provide an excellent program where children of varying ages and backgrounds can progress both socially and intellectually. Secondly, it is our objective to provide a training program for individuals in the community who have the potential and desire to work with children."

"The present staff reflects, this type of thinking with a mixture of professional people and teacher assistants who have had experience in pre-school programs. ## BH Needs Housing To Lease

City Guarantees Rent To Owners

Sammy Smith, executive director of the Benton Harbor housing commission, said "five and six bedroom homes are needed urgently to fulfill the obligation of the city's leased housing program."

Smith said the program calls for housing to be leased from owners. Rent is guaranteed by the housing commission as lessee, regardless of the paying ability of the tenants.

All leases are signed for a five-year period and can be renewed. Homes are required to pass city inspection before the lease is signed.

The program was established to provide housing for large families of low incomes as an alternative to construction of new public housing.

Property owners can receive further information by calling 927-3541 or 927-3529, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

News Quiz Keeps Students Informed

A three-month absence from the classroom shouldn't mean that students are out of contact with what's going on in the world.

The weekly News Quiz presented by this newspaper gives students and their elders a chance to test themselves on current events during the summer.

Review the people and places that are making headlines, then see if you can identify them correctly. The quiz is on page 7, and for those who aren't quite sure, the answers are on page 8.

The quiz is part of the visual education program sponsored by this newspaper. During the school year, news filmstrips are sent to area classrooms.

Niles Man Accidentally Shot In Leg

NILES — A man was accidentally shot in the leg shortly after noon yesterday when the revolver he was going to sell discharged, striking him in his right leg.

State police from the Niles post said Pat Simmons, 63, of 1003 Ontario road, Niles, had apparently taken his revolver to the parking lot of the Kubiak tavern on State Line road with the intention of selling it to James Frye, 44, of 245 Sorin street, Niles.

While Frye was examining the revolver, it discharged hitting Simmons in the leg.

Simmons was treated and released for the wound at South Bend Memorial hospital.

Police ruled the shooting as accidental.

Daries Boost Milk Prices

Hike Blamed On Mounting Production Costs

Retail milk prices in stores and home delivery routes in the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph area are going up.

Spokesmen for a sampling of stores said some brands added a penny to the price of a quart Friday. The rest are expected to follow suit within the week.

Dean Forbarger, general manager of Producers Creamery, said notices to stores and home delivery customers would be sent out this week.

QUART COSTS 31c

For stores, the boost moves the per quart price to 31 cents in most cases. Home delivery customers will be paying 33 cents for an individual quart.

Prices for half gallons, adjusted on a quantity purchase basis, would also be affected in both stores and delivery route cases.

Spokesmen in the stores said the increase in price, if not already added, would be passed on to the buyer once received.

PRODUCTION COSTS UP

Forbarger said the increase resulted from mounting costs of producing and processing the milk. The cost of class one bulk milk purchased by dairies for processing went up 17 cents a hundred pounds on Aug. 1, the official said.

Milk producer groups, such as the Lockshore Farms Inc., Kalamazoo notified the dairies of the price hike in July.

Forbarger said the notice, however, came too late to pass on the information to stores and home users last week.

Fall At Play Proves Fatal

Firemen said Mr. Sayre struck his head. His son received a wrenched back but declined medical attention.

Two-Masted
Craft Sank
In 1864Nearby Cruiser
Explosion Adds
To Excitement

MENOMINEE (AP) — More than 30,000 persons and 200 boats jammed the waterfront at Menominee Sunday to get a look at a two-masted schooner that had been refloated after spending 100 years in a watery grave. A spectacular explosion aboard a plush cabin cruiser provided extra excitement for the record crowd attending the annual "blessing of the fleet" ceremonies at Menominee in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

NETWORK TV

Since its resurrection last week the old sailing ship has been the subject of much publicity, including network television.

The refloated ship is believed to have sunk in 1864 in 110 feet of water in Green Bay during a storm. Three lives were lost.

However, the vessel has not yet yielded positive proof of its identity although it is in very good condition despite its being under water for more than 100 years.

A crew of amateur divers from Egg Harbor, Wis. had worked for two years to recover artifacts from the sunken ship and prepare the vessel for restoration.

While Bishop Charles A. Salata of the Marquette Roman Catholic diocese was blessing fishing craft and the 19th Century schooner, three explosions ripped through a 35-foot cabin cruiser about 100 yards beyond a Menominee breakwater.

LEAPED OVERBOARD

The cruiser's occupant, Ray Lasee, 53, of De Pere, Wis., leaped overboard as flames rose 25 to 30 feet. He was the only person aboard the Ten-One, his wife having gone ashore to watch the ceremonies.

The Ten-One had been among boats blessed moments earlier by the bishop. Lasee said the blessing "may have saved me."

He and his wife had stopped at the harbor after a two-week cruise to Canada, he said.

Lasee was rescued uninjured after the Coast Guard cutter Raritan, pausing to discharge passengers who had been watching the ceremonies, joined a small fleet of private vessels that went to Lasee's aid.

The Ten-One's value was placed at $40,000. The cruiser did not sink although it was extensively damaged by the fire.

RETURN FROM A GRAVE: Some of the estimated 30,000 persons attending Sunday's annual "blessing of the fleet" at Menominee, Mich. stroll past a 19th century Great Lakes freighter schooner, hauled last week from the floor of Lake Michigan's Green Bay by salvage workers. The relic is believed to be a ship which sank in an 1864 storm, claiming three lives. It was among the boats blessed by a Roman Catholic bishop. (AP Wirephoto)

Cass LakeTeens Suffer
Minor Injuries

CASSOPOLIS — Two youths received minor injuries in a boating accident Sunday afternoon on Diamond Lake when their boat rammed and overturned another boat containing two other teenagers.

Cass County sheriff deputies said a boat operated by Richard McDonald, Jr., 15, of 142 Diamond Shores, Cassopolis was moving between 20-25 miles per hour 200 yards off shore when it rammed the port and stern side of a boat driven by Terry D. Marshman, 17, of Tulip Tree lane, Cassopolis.

The impact threw Marshman and his passenger, Wendy Lowitz, 14, of New York, overboard. McDonald and his passenger, Todd Wurster, 12, of 216 Diamond Shores, Cassopolis, swung around and rescued the two teenagers, deputies said.

Both McDonald and Wurster were taken to Lee Memorial hospital Dowagiac, where McDonald was treated for a two-inch laceration on his forehead, and Wurster for a mild concussion. Both were released yesterday. The teenagers in the Marshman boat were not hurt.

McDonald told sheriff's officers that the windshield on his boat was wet and foggy and he hadn't seen the Marshman boat. He was issued tickets for failure to yield the right of way and operating a boat without a license.
